Our Mission and Impact

Lakota Arts and Crafts Enterprise LLC connects Oglala Lakota artists on the Pine Ridge Reservation with museums, parks, and cultural retailers across the United States.

We work directly with artists to provide handcrafted artwork that remains connected to the individual artists who create it while managing wholesale ordering, fulfillment, and retailer support.

Every piece in this catalog is created by Oglala Lakota artists whose names and stories remain connected to their work. Certificates of authenticity accompany each piece.

Business Impact

- $35,000+ paid directly to artists since launching
- Repeat orders from museum and park retailers
- Direct partnerships with Pine Ridge artists
- Artist names and stories remain connected to every piece

Spirit Horses

Created by Alvin Ghost Elk Iron Cloud

Alvin Ghost Elk Iron Cloud is an Oglala Lakota artist from the Pine Ridge Reservation whose hand-carved Spirit Horses are inspired by Lakota history, traditions, and storytelling. Each horse is individually carved and painted by hand, incorporating symbolic designs and personal artistic touches that make every piece unique.

Hand-Painted Parfleche Earrings

Created by Sam Two Bulls

Sam has added parfleche earrings (Wizipaŋ) to his repertoire, bringing his bold colors and distinctive painted designs to wearable art. Each earring features a hand-painted parfleche circle approximately 2 inches in diameter.

Parfleche is made from rawhide—animal hide that has not been tanned. Lakota women traditionally used buffalo, deer, and elk hides to make durable containers and other useful objects.

Sam brings his own artistic expression to this traditional material, creating earrings that pair the natural character of rawhide with his recognizable use of color and design.

Wholesale: $35 per pair

Designs shown: butterflies, bison, turtles, horse heads, hummingbirds

Lakota Quillwork Jewelry

Timothy Red Cloud is an Oglala Lakota artist and direct descendant of Chief Red Cloud.
